Geoffrey A. Baker Collection

Geoffrey Baker was a Royal Airforce man stationed at Mount Hope during the years of the second World War. He took many pictures of Mount Hope, Hamilton, local rail traffic (being an avid train spotter) and other locations he visited.

His collection consists of mostly photographs as well as a few booklets from Mount Hope and Greenfield Pioneer Village.

Letter. March 8, 1977 Katherine Greenfield from Geoffrey A. Baker. Regarding the donation of photographs to the Hamilton Public Library.	Folder 1

I was on duty for "night-flying" (Hence dirty working clothes) We finished early, & I went in to see the end of a concert by Bert Nioosi & his band. At one stage they asked for 3 airmen to come & play the drums. They had two volunteers [sic] & the lads pushed me forward to make the third. I can't play the drums, so "fooled about" playing them. & got first Prize! I still have the drum sticks you can see in by Belt!! (Picture taken by Official Station Photographer)	2-15
